Lesson Summary:
Hopefully, by now, you have completed each of the weekly lessons in the “Habits of Health System” course. Please review each week to make sure you have not skipped over any of this valuable material which will be used in creating the life you desire. If you find that your understanding of the material is not what it should be, feel free to retake a lesson so that you fully understand the power that creating the Habits of Health can have on your overall health and well-being for many years to come.

Take a few minutes to write down what you learned during this course. I’m not looking for you to take an exam of the material. What I am asking you to do is to examine where you are at in your life and to write down the changes you see for your life. This written statement can be both an examination of your current reality and a vision of the life you are creating. But more importantly, write down the specific daily choices that you plan on incorporating in order to live the Habits of Health for a Longer, Healthier Life!
